

What happens if my chemical spills in the compartment?

The Vista transmission compartment is completely sealed to prevent any liquids, vapors or other contaminants from affecting the optics. The compartment itself is purposely sloped forward so that liquids that may spill do not collect in the compartment but are easily wiped out. Additionally, the compartment is anodized for durability to stand up to some of the harsh chemicals that will be measured.

